It is not intended to be legal advice. If you need legal advice, you should contact a lawyer through your local legal aid organization. INTRODUCTION

In Washington, juvenile court records are available and open to the general public until sealed. This information packet describes how to seal your juvenile record. You must meet certain conditions in order to have your record sealed by the court. Most people with juvenile records will need to go through the specific steps described in this packet. Once sealed, records are not available to the public, but they do still exist. Records may be unsealed if you are convicted of a new juvenile offense, adult crime, or if you are charged with a felony.

This packet provides general information about juvenile record sealing in Washington State. Additional information is available on TeamChild's website. See www.teamchild.org and search for Juvenile Record Sealing Project. There are also a number of record sealing clinics where you may be able to receive free assistance or legal advice about sealing your record. For more information, contact TeamChild's Record Sealing Project at recordsealing@teamchild.org.

2015 Update: There are many new updates to the law in 2015 that may make it easier to seal your record. If you tried to seal your record in the past, but were not eligible, there may be new opportunities for you to seal your record now. For example:

- If you have paid restitution (the money owed to a victim), you may now be eligible to seal, even without paying fines and other court costs.
- If you have unpaid restitution and fines, but cannot afford to pay them, you may be able to ask the court to modify them.
- If you owe restitution along with other youth involved in your case, you may ask the court to set a separate amount of restitution so you can pay for your share of the damage to the victim before sealing your record.
- Courts, court clerks, law enforcement agencies, prosecutors, and the Department of Licensing are not allowed to release sealed records to anyone who has not specifically been given access under the law.

Note that most of these new opportunities in the law will require more legal advice and representation than this information packet can provide.

This packet walks through the process of sealing a juvenile record and provides general information for each step.

The Process: How to Seal Your Juvenile Offender Record

If you have been involved with the juvenile justice system, the court keeps a record of your case and other related information. This is what we mean when we use the term, juvenile court record. The juvenile court record has two components: the official juvenile court file and the social file. The official juvenile court file contains charges, lawyers' documents, findings of the court, and court orders. It may be viewed by the public. The social file contains things like the reports from your probation counselors. It may only be viewed by specific people involved in your case. When you seal your record, the public cannot see the official juvenile court file or the social file.

The official juvenile court file is physically kept in the court clerk's office in the county where your case was filed. A copy may also be kept by law enforcement and other juvenile justice or care agencies that may have been involved, like the Juvenile Rehabilitation Administration if you were incarcerated there.

It may be helpful to read through the whole instruction packet so you can get an idea of the steps before you get started.

1. Gather your juvenile criminal history.

To start the process, you will need to get a complete listing of your criminal history. You can get this from the Superior Court clerk or juvenile court in any county. See Appendix B for a listing of all the juvenile courts in Washington. Ask the court clerk for a listing of all of the juvenile offender cases filed against you in juvenile court, including those cases that were not charged, or were dismissed. You should also ask for a copy of the financial history for each of those cases. The financial history will show amounts of any fines, fees and or restitution imposed by the court, and whether any money is still owed.

If you had juvenile court cases in more than one county, make sure to ask the clerk for help in identifying which county each case is associated with.

2. Figure out if you meet the legal sealing requirements.

Look through your criminal and financial history. If you have more than one juvenile case, you will need to make a separate request to the court to seal each one. In order to seal a juvenile case, you will need to meet a certain set of requirements in the law. For each case you want to seal, go through the checklist of questions in the chart below. For a listing of types of offenses and their "class", see Appendix A.

Legal Requirements for Sealing Juvenile Offender Records

The juvenile court can order the sealing of your juvenile court record only if you meet certain legal requirements. If you answer “Yes” to all of the questions listed below, and if you follow the correct procedures, you may be able to have your record sealed.

Yes No

	Yes	No
1. I do not have any criminal charges pending in the juvenile or adult court.
2. I am not currently completing a diversion agreement.
3. The charge I am trying to seal is not classified as a sex offense. ¹ (If the charge is a sex offense, see # 7 below)
4. I do not owe any restitution to the named victim (this does not include insurance companies) for the case I want to seal.
5. Eligibility for sealing a juvenile Class A felony (for sex offenses see #7 below)² A. It has been more than five years since the date of my last sentencing (disposition) and the date I was released from confinement, whichever is later. B. The Class A felony I am trying to seal is not Rape 1, Rape 2, or Indecent Liberties with Forcible Compulsion.	 _____ _____	 _____ _____
6. Eligibility for sealing any other juvenile case, including in court diversions (for sex offenses see #7 below) It has been more than two years since the date of my last sentencing (disposition) and the date I was released from confinement, whichever is later.
7. Eligibility for sealing a juvenile sex offense. In addition to meeting all of the requirements above, I no longer have to register as a sex offender under RCW 9A.44.130 or RCW 9A.44.143.

¹ There is a Classification of Offenses chart in Appendix A you can use to see how your charge(s) is/are classified.

² In July 2011, the Washington State legislature reinstated the right of juvenile sex offenders to petition the court to have their records sealed (RCW 13.50.260), however, adjudications for three Class A felonies cannot be sealed: Rape 1 & 2 and Indecent Liberties with Forcible Compulsion.

3. Complete the forms needed to file your sealing request and notify the necessary people that you are making the request.

If you are eligible for sealing, you must make your request to seal in the county where your case took place. You can check Appendix B for more information about how each county processes juvenile record sealing requests. You will need to fill out one copy of each of these forms for every case you would like to have sealed:

- Motion and Declaration to Seal Records of Juvenile Offender Pursuant to RCW 13.50.260(3) and (4)
- Notice of Respondent’s Motion to Seal Records of Juvenile Offender
- Order on Motion to Seal Records of Juvenile Offender Pursuant to RCW 13.50.260(3) & (4)
- Certificate of Service

This packet has the forms and sample letters in Appendix C and D.

You can also use an online tool that will generate the court forms for you. See www.washingtonlawhelp.org and select Youth Law & Education > Juvenile Offenders.

4. Schedule a hearing.

In most counties, sealing your record requires a hearing in front of a judge. Before you file your motion, you will need to get a hearing date from the juvenile court. You usually have to do this in person. Bring your completed forms with you. Explain to the juvenile court clerk that you would like to seal your record, and ask for a hearing date and time. When you get a hearing date, you will need to add that information to the form “Notice of Respondent’s Motion to Seal Records of Juvenile Offender” before you mail or deliver it to the prosecutor, law enforcement and juvenile justice agencies that need to be notified.

5. Make copies and file your documents. Then make more copies.

After you fill in the hearing date on the Notice form, you should make a copy of the documents to keep for yourself. Now you are ready to file the original documents with the court.

When you file the original documents with the juvenile court clerk, ask the clerk to stamp the date on your copy. That “date stamp” is proof that you filed the original documents. The clerk will keep your original documents. You will need to take your copy of the “date stamped” documents and make enough additional copies (except for the Order) to deliver or mail to all the agencies described in Step 6.

6. Deliver or Mail the Motion(s) and Notice(s).

Court rules say that after you file your Motion(s) for sealing, you must deliver and/or mail the Motion(s) and Notice(s) to these agencies:

- juvenile court prosecutor in the county where your case was originally heard
- the juvenile court administrator in the county where your case was originally heard and
- law enforcement agencies that have records of your case, including the Washington State Patrol (WSP), county sheriff, and local police departments, and
- the Juvenile Rehabilitation Administration, if you were incarcerated in one of its facilities for the case(s) you are trying to seal.

Guide for identifying where to mail or deliver the Notices and Motions:

- Prosecutor: Look up the mailing address for the county prosecutor. Sometimes they are in the same building as the court, so you can deliver it. Make sure you have them stamp the copy you are keeping, or give you a receipt. This is your proof they received it.
- Juvenile Court Administrator: You can send or deliver it to the County Juvenile Court. Appendix B has a listing of Juvenile Court addresses.
- Washington State Patrol: Washington State Patrol, Records Division, PO Box 42633, Olympia, WA 98504.
- Other Law Enforcement Agencies: You will also have to mail or deliver the Motion and Notice to any other law enforcement agencies that were involved with the case(s) that you are trying to seal. If you do not know, then you should send the Notice and Motion to both the local police and the county sheriff.
- Juvenile Rehabilitation Administration: Records Coordinator, Juvenile Rehabilitation Administration, DSHS, P.O. Box 45045, Olympia, WA 98504.

If you mail the documents, send a cover letter. You can use the first sample letter in Appendix D, including your personal information. Sign and date the letter. Make and keep a copy of each letter that you send. If you need to send more documents for more than one case, you can send them in the same envelope.

If you can afford it, you should send the Notice and Motions by certified mail, so you will know that they received it.

After you have mailed or delivered the Notices and Motions, fill out the Certificate of Service found in Appendix C. A Certificate of Service is a statement saying that you mailed or delivered the Motion and Notice to the necessary agencies or departments. Bring it and a copy to your court hearing.

7. Go to your court hearing. Bring your copy of the court documents.

The hearing will take place in front of a judge or commissioner at Juvenile Court. Bring your copy the Motion(s) and Notice(s) that you filed, your copy of the Certificate of Service, and the Order that you filled out for each case.

8. After the hearing, get certified copies of the court orders.

If the Court approves your Motion(s) and signs your Order(s), you will need a certified copy of the Order(s). You can ask the judge to order the clerk to provide a certified copy of the order at no cost, or you can get a certified copy of the order from the clerk. The cost for a certified copy will vary from court to court. You should keep your certified copy someplace safe.

9. Mail a copy of the certified order to every agency involved.

Make enough copies of the certified court Order(s) so that you can mail or deliver a copy to each of the agencies that you sent notice in #6. Send a cover letter with the Order(s). You can use the second sample letter in Appendix D, including your personal information. Sign and date the letter. Make and keep a copy of each letter that you send.

After all this hard work, do not skip this last step! The agencies will not know to seal your record unless they get a copy of the certified Order.

Background Checks: There may be a lag time between the time the court enters an order sealing your record and the removal of the information from private credit reporting companies. Generally these companies update their databases with court information every three months, so expect that your record may still be available to these companies for 4 or more months after you get an order of sealing. If you believe that you successfully sealed your record, but find out that the record has shown up on a background check, contact TeamChild's Record Sealing Clinic at recordsealing@teamchild.org

Regular statutory administrative sealing: A disposition in this case was entered after June 11, 2014, and, the respondent is entitled to have the files and records in this case reviewed for automatic sealing pursuant to RCW 13.50.260 because the respondent is now at least 18 years of age and is no longer subject to community supervision and/or JRA commitment and parole. Entitled to administratively seal: there is no objection to sealing, nor is there any compelling reason not to seal. 2.4 Re-sealing post nullification under RCW Title 13.50.260: This case was previously sealed and then the sealing order nullified after adjudication in a subsequent case number _____-8-_____. Since nullification, there has been a disposition in the subsequent case number. Now, this case does qualify does not qualify for sealing by statute. Re-sealing in this case is appropriate inappropriate (RCW 13.50.260).

2.5 Motion to seal records under GR 15: Compelling privacy or safety concerns that outweigh the public interest in access to the court records have have not been found. In addition, the court finds as follows:
